Volume 5, Issue 3
1 June 2016

 From 1 June 2016, BP will introduce a new pricing regime for diesel at their truck stop network.

This will basically see ARFAI BP Fuel Card holders some 16cpl better off discount wise than either Z or Mobil truck stops and some 17cpl better off than purchasing diesel from a BP service station.

Please note that whilst the discount for truck stop diesel has reduced from 14cpl to 5cpl, the base price has also been reduced by some 25cpl.

No other fuel pricing is affected at this time.

PLEASE REMEMBER

BP National Card Price (NCP)

the ARFAI BP Fuel Cards operate on a National Card Pricing system. To understand this you need to know that the National Card Price:

- Is a base unit value given to fuel by BP that reflects a constant national price for their fuel throughout New Zealand
- Means that you pay the same price for fuel anywhere in New Zealand when using an BP ARFAI Fuel Card
- Changes to reflect the cost of fuel in New Zealand
- Is NOT the pump price
- Is NOT a Regional Price
- Is set at varying base levels by the different oil companies
- Is separated into two distinct pricing categories—Service Station and Truck Stop
- May also be known as the “Voucher Rate”

An anomaly to the National Card Price discount is when either the service station or the oil company's have a “Special” day when prices for that day are discounted by, say 10 cents a litre.

With BP, you will be invoiced at whichever is the lesser price on the day, either the National Card Price OR the discounted price.

For the latest pricing, please visit our web site at www.arfai.co.nz (the PIN for access is 2766) or contact us at the ARFAI office.

Over the six or so months after the purchase is settled on 1 June, the new combined organisation will be working to explore what changes can be introduced to benefit the customers of both brands.

To be really clear, any change to how Z services customers will be subject to a choice and, in many cases, those choices will require an investment in systems and potentially a significant lead time to implement.
